

THE RESIDENCE OF MR. EDGAR HALSTEAD.

The above cut represents the home of Mr. Edgar Halstead on the corner of Piikoi street and Wilder avenue. A veranda extends across the entire front and all along the mauka side.

The exterior is pleasingly finished in harmonious colors light cream body, olive green trimmings and dark red window sash.

The dwelling is a two-story structure. The main entrance is through a tiled vestibule into a reception hall. On the right is the parlor, a room 16 ft. x 22 ft. and at the back the parlor opens by sliding doors into the billiard room which is 18 ft. x 22 ft., splendidly lighted from the north. From the reception hall we pass through an elliptical arch with columns into the stair hall.

On the left side of the house as we enter are two large bed-rooms with bath room between them and a linen closet for each.

On this same floor is a lanai-dining-room 16 ft. x 23 ft. Kitchen, pantry and store room back.

On the second floor are five bed-rooms of large size each opening into the hall, and then in the front, over the parlor is a sitting room 17 ft. x 18 ft.

Linen closets and a bath-room complete this floor.

Interior finish on the first floor is slightly shaded northwest while the finish of the second floor is untinted northwest natural color.

Floors are all in northwest polished and waxed.

THE RESIDENCE OF MR. C. J. LUDWIGEN.

Another of the new houses built near the open cricket ground is an edifice belonging to Mr. C. J. Ludwigen.

Two-story in height, exterior finish in tasty color, the house is attractive and pleasing to the eye.

Main entrance is at the center. There are two lanais, one on either side. On left of hall, extending through the middle of the house, is parlor and dining room, communicating with each other through arch way with sliding door. On the left is the drawing room and sewing room. Drawing room and parlor open forwards onto separate lanais. At rear of hall is a large back lanai 12 ft. x 14 ft., on one side of which is kitchen and pantry and other side bath room and store room.

On the second floor are four large chambers, large linen closets for each. The front hall opens onto a balcony 6 ft. x 17 ft., while at the rear end is an especially fine bath room. The interior wood work on the first floor is finished in Port Orford cedar in natural color. The dining room is wainscotted in panels 3 1/2 feet high. At one side of the dining room there is built in the house a sideboard with turned columns. The interior of second floor is finished in natural color, northwest.

THE RESIDENCE OF MR. GERRIT WILDER.

Turning off to the left from the Manoa valley road just about the Oahu College buildings we approach the residence of Mr. G. P. Wilder.

At the front is a large porte cochere. Passing up the steps we stand within a 10 feet veranda extending across the front, and ending on the right in a large lanai 15 ft. x 15 ft.

In the center of the house is a living room 18 ft. x 27 1/2 ft. On the left of this fine large room is the dining room 18 ft. x 24 ft. with side-board built in.

The pillared arch between these two rooms is broad and high and is one of the special features of this dwelling.

There is also a large airy chamber 15 ft. x 21 1/2 ft. There is also a "den" near to the owners' heart off from the living room some 18 ft. x 22 ft.

In addition there to be found butler's try, store room fuel room and kitchen sides various linen closets and om.

st, comfortable spot in on the right of the living room where a couch, built in the house, flanked on either side by book-cases and well lighted from the lanai permits the occupant to look across the living room through the columned arch into the great dining room.

The side elevations of the stair hall and the view marks in the same are other features of most pleasing aspect.

The floors are polished northwest; the dining room is wainscotted 6 feet high, paneled, the ceilings in the main rooms are beamed and paneled, and all this wood-work is curly redwood carefully selected.

On the stair leading in an oval window of elegant design. The exterior is of the bungalow style. Walls of stained rough lumber, and roof of green stained shingle.

This is one of the finest residences in the city.

THE RESIDENCE OF JUDGE STANLEY.

In addition to the home of the artist Harold Mott-Smith in the "Auwalimu" tract just off from Nuanu avenue, there is another new dwelling on slightly higher ground occupied by Judge Stanley.

The residence is approached over a well-kept lawn and the house is surrounded by rows of banana plants along the front and sides.

An 8-ft. veranda extends across the entire front.

At the center we enter a large living room, and continuing straight on pass under the broad arch into the dining-room. On each side of the house are two bed rooms and bath. At the rear are kitchen, pantry and store-room.

RESIDENCE OF MR. CARL WIDEMANN.

Our cut represent the home of Mr. Carl Widemann on the mauka side of King street in the McCully tract.

This house is a one story dwelling with three rooms and a bath room on the second floor. A veranda runs across the front and leads to a large lanai on the Waikiki side.

Front entrance at the center of the house leads to a long hall 8-ft. wide extending through the house; on the right are parlor and dining room, connected by grill arches and at the left is a parlor and also three bed-rooms and a bath-room. At the rear part of the house are found kitchen, pantry, butler's pantry and small black piazza.

A stair-way arises from the middle hall leading to three commodious bed-rooms and bath.

The exterior is painted a yellow body with white trimmings.

There are inside blinds throughout the house.

THE RESIDENCE OF NORMAN HALSTEAD.

The illustration shows well the front and east side of the residence of Mr. Norman Halstead on Wilder Avenue near Punahou street.

A fine velvet lawn surrounds the house on all sides.

The exterior is in terra cotta color with darker trimmings and dark red window sash.

The interior blinds are in natural wood finish.

Extreme dimensions of edifice 51 ft. by 71 ft. Across the front and along the west side extends a large veranda terminating in a lanai 15 ft. x 22 ft.

Entering the front door we find ourselves in the hall, on the left we pass through a pretty grilled arch into the parlor and then turning to the right walk directly towards the dining room. The extreme east room is a fernery of octagonal design. The kitchen, store-room and pantry are on this floor further back.

Upstairs on the 2nd floor are 3 large airy bed-rooms, 2 bath-rooms, a sewing room and linen closets.

Howard & Train, Architects.

THE RESIDENCE OF MR. A. W. MEYER.

Our present cut represent a tasty cottage on the left of the Manoa road at an elevation of something more than 300 feet. This is the property of Mr. A. W. Meyer.

An outlook may be had from this point nearly equal to that obtained from the S. N. Castle residence farther up the valley.

A veranda 8 feet wide extends along the rakal side and along the front terminating in a lanai on the corner 15 ft. x 21 ft., furnished with sliding window sash on the side and front.

Back of the lanai we pass to the drawing room 15 1/2 ft. x 18 1/2 ft. Passing on we enter through an open arch with columns on either side the large dining room.

There are also two chambers, a large bath room, two linen closets, a large, and a smaller, store-room, a pantry and kitchen.
